The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Buccieri 6,367,465.

Buccieri shows a release device including a body 16, trigger 12, and a sleeve 144 rotatably connected to the trigger by means of shaft 166.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 12 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Beretta 4,625,443 in view of Buccieri.

Beretta shows a firearm with a trigger 20, but there is no sleeve. Buccieri shows that a trigger may include a sleeve 144 rotatably connected to the trigger by means of shaft 166. This arrangement reduces the energy needed to pull the trigger, and increases the rate of fire (column 1, lines 39-48). Since these would be advantages with a firearm trigger, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide the trigger of the firearm of Beretta with a sleeve, as suggested by Buccieri.

Claim 13 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Goodman 4,742,812 in view of Buccieri.

Goodman shows an archery bow with a trigger 23, but there is no sleeve. Buccieri shows that a trigger may include a sleeve 144 rotatably connected to the trigger by means of shaft 166. This arrangement reduces the energy needed to pull the trigger, and increases the rate of fire (column 1, lines 39-48). Since these would be advantages with an archery bow trigger, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide the trigger of the bow of Goodman with a sleeve, as suggested by Buccieri.

Claims 14-31 are allowed.

Claims 5-11 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The prior art does not disclose a release device including a body having a caliper which is openable and closeable in response to a trigger; and the trigger having having a shaft and a sleeve rotatable about the shaft.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
